Otemon Gakuin University

The Australia Library of the Otemon Gakuin University Library is the only dedicated collection of literature on Australia in Japan.

In October 2007, approximately 15,000 materials (10,000 volumes in English, 3,000 volumes in Japanese, and 2,000 audiovisual materials) of The Australia-Japan Foundation Collection were donated to the Otemon Gakuin University Library by the Australian government with whom The Center for Australian Studies of the University has a long history of interaction. The Australia Library was opened with another 5,000 materials from collections of The Center for Australian Studies. This makes about 15,000 materials open for viewing.

Collection & Service

The collection spans Australian history, economics, industry, culture, arts and other fields of endeavor and includes several sources on the Aboriginal people. Moreover, there are videos and DVDs of movies produced in Australia available for viewing.

There is also a database of more than 50 newspapers from Australia and New Zealand. Searching can be done by newspaper name, date or keyword, and full stories from available prints can be viewed online.

Using "Australia Library Digital Theses Database System", theses on Australia that are published in Japan can be easily searched for and viewed.

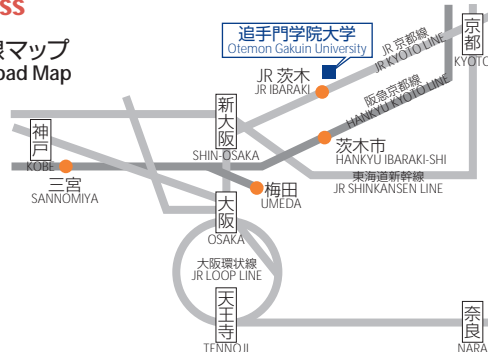

The Australia Library is open to the general public as well and materials can be shared with cooperating libraries through interlibrary access. Library catalogs (OPAC) can be searched from the library's website.
